The Alliance of New Afrikan Economic Development Cooperatives (ANAEDC) in conjunction with New Afrikan Investment Associations (NAIAI) are complementary organizations with related but distinct roles.

ANAEDC functions primarily as an educational, organizational, and economic development support alliance, helping local investment associations become effective and sustainable. NAIAI functions as a member-based collective investment and financial education association, with the goal of creating shared wealth and supporting the New Afrikan movement for self-determination through cooperative economic action.

The mission of ANAEDA is to support the New Afrikan Nation's efforts toward self-determination by strengthening local chapters of the New Afrikan Investment Associations and helping them develop the knowledge, systems, and institutions needed for long-term economic development.

Its work centers on three priorities:

1. Economic and financial education
2. Administrative support
3. Building intergenerational collective wealth

Nature-Culture is a philosophic, holistic community-development model intended to create sustainable, self-sufficient rural communities grounded in spirituality, nature, and active participation. It combines organic gardening, homestead living, innovative housing, renewable energy, holistic education, creative arts, environmental stewardship, healthful living, and income-generating enterprises. Its intergenerational participants jointly plan, operate, and evaluate the community, strengthening their skills and capacity through hands-on involvement. The model emphasizes balancing a “sacred mission”—spiritual awareness, prayer, meditation, virtue, and alignment with a higher source—with “secular obligations” such as farming, family life, education, business administration, and responsible financial management. Its ultimate vision is an integrated community of homes, farms, schools, businesses, and spiritual centers that supports lasting personal and collective.

2:00 PM – 2:45 PM: ELI AND ELI, YOUR SURVIVAL CONSULTANT

For 10 years our purpose and sole intent is to instruct myelinated families, primarily homesteaders, ranchers, farmers & gardeners; core life skills in wilderness survival, urban prepping and emergency readiness. Whether you're a first timer in archery, gardening, and wildcraft medicine or a seasoned veteran in firearms, tactical combat, and communications, there's always room to flourish and thrive in any environment. We're here for you as Whether you're a first timer in archery, gardening, and wildcraft medicine or a seasoned veteran in firearms, tactical combat, and communications. There's always room to flourish and thrive in any environment. We're here for you as we survive and thrive together!

(Re)Birth Society is a community-led organization working to improve the ecosystem of reproductive and environmental care in Chicago through land and community stewardship. We provide service, resources, education and opportunities for cultural enrichment, supporting community efforts toward physical, mental, spiritual, emotional, social, and financial wellness and justice.

E'LICIA HERNDON

E'Licia started her journey into birth work in April of 2018 when she trained as a Birth Doula. Since then, she has also trained as a Postpartum Doula, Perinatal Fitness Instructor, Homebirth Assistant, Lactation Peer Counselor, and is currently a Student Midwife learning how to care for women who desire an out of hospital birth. With these trainings and experiences, E'Licia has aided over 100 families in either their pregnancy, labor, or postpartum journey. As E'Licia is working towards completing her midwifery training, she hopes to bring more pregnancy, lactation, and family resources to the communities she serves.

A Film By Frederick DeShon Murphy

A journey Back to Self is a documentary that follows the transformative journey of artist, healer, and storyteller Afriye Wekandodis as she relocates from Chicago to Selma, Alabama.

Through this deeply personal homecoming, she explores her ancestral roots, confronts inherited trauma, and embraces healing through art, community, and spiritual practice. As a performing artist, motivational speaker, and the creator of Soul Prints of Our Ancestors, an immersive, interactive experience that inspires healing, remembrance, and human connection.

As a performing artist, motivational speaker, and the creator of Soul Prints of Our Ancestors, an immersive, interactive experience that inspires healing, remembrance, and human connection.

Her work bridges history and contemporary life, inviting participants to engage with the enduring legacy of their ancestors while envisioning new possibilities for themselves and their communities.
